Project to Add Values to Taiwan's Empirical Databases: Prospects, Sustainability and Promotion

- Gathering information on international empirical research trends and domestic scholars' data needs:
 - Understand global empirical research trends, survey local scholars' data needs (User Survey of Taiwan Empirical Survey Database), and evaluate Taiwan's empirical research data.
- Enhancing data management based on international and domestic survey data practices:
 - Improve data management practices aligning with international and domestic survey data trends. Report recommendations to the NSTC for the establishment of data governance norms.
- Promoting interdisciplinary database collaboration:
 - Collaborate with interdisciplinary databases for stable, long-term development and a win-win scenario.
 - e.g. Survey Interviewer Database and interviewer training sessions

User Survey of Taiwan's Empirical Databases

- Aligning thematic data with user needs:

- Identify gaps between the thematic development of survey research and the needs of the SRDA users.
- Discover suitable thematic data that aligns with academic communities.

- Learning from global best practices:

- Explore the advantages of using international empirical survey data as a reference to enhance domestic survey data.
- Improve user satisfaction and usage rates in the local context.

- User-centric approach:

- Gathering user feedback, concerns, and preferences can help in making improvements to survey data.

User Survey of Taiwan's Empirical Databases

Question: What issues need to be addressed by using survey data at this stage?

User Survey of Taiwan's Empirical Databases

Question: What challenges are faced by individuals when using survey data?

Academic Surveys

- Ambiguous data release procedures
- Chaotic data formats, demanding extra cleanup time
- Absence of data consultation channels

Government Surveys

- Lack of panel data
- Inconsistency in variables for the same questions across different waves
- Absence of data consultation channels

Education Program

- Upload 8 new course videos to SRDA YouTube Channel, with a total of 2,799 views in 2023.
- In 2023 CSR hosted eight lectures and one workshop on panel data analysis.
- A total of 740 participants with a mean satisfaction score is 97.0 (on a 1-100 scale with higher number indicating a higher satisfaction.)

Promotional Campaign

- Foreign Scholars Workshop / Taiwan (2023.05)

Future Plan

- Continuously collect international trends and local scholars' requirements to assist NSTC in selecting data with research values worth long-term collection. A recommendation report based on our findings will be delivered.
- Conduct interviewer training sessions and consistently enhance the Survey Interviewer Database .
- Organize a workshop on research methods in August 2024, followed by an international conference in 2025.
